Fall of Novo Georgievsk and Other Great Reverses Permitting Advance of Germans and Austrians Results in Plans for Removing Seat of Russian Government to Historic City of Moscow.

Rupture Between Turkey and Italy Again Imminent—Entente Allies Will Get All of Balkans, It Is Now Believed—Sweep of Austro-German Forces Expected to Carry Russians From Brest Litovsk—20,000 Russians Taken Prisoner at Novo Georgievsk.

By Associated Press.

London, August 20.—As the Austro-German pressure on the outlying flank of the Russians between the Russian capital and the invaders Petrograd is discussing the advisability of removing the capital to Moscow, always considered the heart of the nation.

The flank movement of General von Mackensen grows more threatening and it would not be surprising if Russia abandons all efforts to form a new line with the fortress of Brest Litovsk as the pivot.

Berlin announces today that General von Mackensen has driven the Russians behind Koterkhaukaz, southeast of Brest Litovsk.

A rupture of relations between Turkey and Italy is imminent.

A Spanish steamer, a Norwegian and two small British vessels were torpedoed today.

Rome, via London, August 20.—The entente powers, according to a published statement made by the Sofia correspondent of the Giornale d'Italia, have offered to Bulgaria that part of Macedonia given by the Serbo-Bulgarian treaty of 1912, with the right of immediate occupation.

The contest over the part of Macedonia contested by Serbia, and the cause of the second Balkan war, will be settled after the present war ends. Compensation promised Serbia includes the city of Kavala, with the districts of Kavala and Seres, and the right of immediate occupation.

Bulgaria on her side renounces forever pretensions to Salonika, Voden and Uskub. She promises also to declare war immediately upon Turkey, aided by funds by the four allies.

Bulgaria, the correspondent declares, will receive further territory from Turkey. It is believed Serbia and Greece will give way under pressure of the entente powers, but negotiations will be lengthened.

Berlin, via London, August 20.—Announcement was made here today of the capture of the immense fortress of Novo Georgievsk with more than 20,000 men. The statement follows:

"The fortress of Novo Georgievsk, the enemy's last bulwark in Poland, has been captured after stubborn resistance. The entire garrison including 20,000 men and an enormous amount of war material, fell into our hands."

"The emperor left for Novo Georgievsk in order to give the thanks of himself and the Fatherland to the leader of the attack."

The capture of this fortress has been foreseen since the fall of Warsaw. After the Polish capital fell the Russian garrison of Novo Georgievsk was prepared for a siege because of the fort's strategic position.

Houston, Texas, August 20.—The death list from the Texas storm increased slightly today and the missing decreased considerably.

TWO MORE BIG VESSELS ARE TORPEDOED TODAY

New York, August 20.—Advices received here today bring a report that the White Star liner Bovis has been torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine. The Bovis has been employed in Australian service. She was a vessel of 6500 tons. The report came from London.

The Bovis was a freighter and on her last trip sailed August 8 from New York for Manchester, England. The vessel should just about be in the war zone today. When she sailed she carried a large quantity of war munitions, it is said. She carried no passengers. No Americans are believed to be in the crew.

London, August 20.—The Swansea Leader reports that the British steamer New York City has been sunk. The crew was saved. The New York was bound from Bristol to New York. She was a vessel of 2,970 tons.

Queenstown, August 20.—A report is current here today that the White Star liner Lapland has been sunk. There is no confirmation of the report and it is considered probable that the Lapland was confused with the steamer New York City, torpedoed yesterday, and the crew landed here.

TWO AMERICANS DIE ON ARABIC

Grave Consequences Forseen as Result of One of Germany's Latest Acts of Undersea Warfare—May Come Under the Clause "Deliberately Unfriendly"—U. S. Press Believes the Act an Affront to America

By Associated Press.

Washington, August 20.—Official details upon which President Wilson will decide whether the sinking of the White Star liner Arabic was an act "deliberately unfriendly" were still lacking today and meanwhile the president and all other administration officials, while realizing fully the gravity of the new situation between the United States and Germany, were keeping their minds open.

President Wilson left the White House early to motor to Philadelphia to visit an uncle, and return tonight.

Ambassador Page forwarded the White Star Line's report that the Arabic was torpedoed without warning, and vice-consul Thompson at Queenstown, made a similar report. Neither accounted for Dr. Edmond Wood or Mrs. Josephine Bruguiere, the two Americans still missing.

While officials here are keeping their minds open during the hours which will be required to form assembling the official evidence, they are thinking about these points: whether any American lives have been lost; whether the Arabic was torpedoed without warning; whether the Arabic, having been under convoy during part of her trip, had not, under international law, waived her rights as a non-combatant and whether the Arabic's movements toward Dunsmuir might not be interpreted as an attempt to ram the submarine.

Secretary Lansing refused to discuss the matter.

There is no attempt in official quarters to minimize the situation confronting the president if investigation develops a violation of American rights in defiance of the last note which gave notice in final terms that another sinking like that of the Lusitania would mean a "deliberate unfriendly act."

The prospect of the severance of diplomatic relations again came forward, but it is understood that if such course would be decided upon it would not be done at once.

London, August 20.—It has now been definitely established the White Star Line announces this afternoon, that only two Americans are unaccounted for. These are Dr. Wood and Mrs. Bruguiere.

New York, August 20.—Editorial comment in most of the American newspapers indicates that the prevailing opinion is that if American lives were lost when the Arabic was torpedoed, Germany may have brought about a "most grave situation."

Some declare the sinking of the vessel looks like the "deliberate unfriendly" act against which President Wilson distinctly warned her in his last note.

London, August 20.—The best information now available indicates that a score or more persons lost their lives in the sinking of the White Star liner Arabic by a German submarine yesterday morning off the Irish coast.

Thus far it has not been definitely determined whether any Americans are among the dead. Dr. Edmond F. Wood, of Jamesville, Wis., and Mrs. Josephine L. Bruguiere, an American who had lived in Europe, are missing.

The White Star Line announced

this morning all but 8 landed at Queenstown. Four of these are said to be Americans. According to information cabled to Washington by Lewis C. Thompson, American consul at Queenstown, however, Dr. Wood and Mrs. Bruguiere are the only missing Americans. The other two, James Houlihan, of Philadelphia, and Thomas Elmore, of New York, were reported by the consul to have been saved. In all about 400 out of the 423 persons aboard the Arabic have been accounted for. Hope that others may have been saved is fading. Announcement that all but 8 were rescued bears out reports that most of those lost were in the crew.

The torpedoing of the Arabic has stirred England from end to end and the public has turned its attention upon its possible effect between the United States and Germany. The small loss of life was due to the heroism of the crew from the captain down to the firemen who stuck to their posts in face of certain death.

In Queenstown everything possible was done to aid survivors, many of whom were without clothes.

MILLIONS ON BOARD ARABIC

By Associated Press.

New York, August 20.—According to an unconfirmed report current in the financial districts, the Arabic carried four to seven millions of dollars in American securities.

ATTACK BRINGS TENSE FEELING IN THE CAPITAL

Washington, Aug. 20.—If the steamship Arabic, carrying American passengers, was torpedoed by a German submarine without warning, as asserted by the officials of the White Star line, it clearly falls within the scope of the "deliberately unfriendly" act against which Germany was warned in the last note sent by the United States on the submarine issue. This was acknowledged informally by officials here.

While the German attack upon the Arabic would thus seem to call for action on the part of this government in support of the president's warning to Germany, it is realized here that the seriousness of the situation will depend on whether or not any American passengers on the Arabic lost their lives. On this point the state department is without any definite information.

The belief in Washington is that the people of the United States will not demand drastic action toward Germany unless American lives have been sacrificed. The president and his advisers will not of course undertake to go any further than the sentiment of the country will support, and it is acknowledged even by high officials of the administration that Americans as a whole do not seem desirous at this time of forcing the issue with Germany to the extent of an open break. The general feeling in the national capital is that nothing short of loss of American life in connection with the sinking of the Arabic would lead to any likelihood of drastic action.

The president conversed frequently over the telephone with Secretary of State Lansing. His wait developed the cheering news that most of the passengers were saved, but the president plainly was depressed. Later he went automobiling, giving consideration alone to the problem which faces the government.

London, Aug. 20.—The White Star liner Arabic, of 15,801 tons, was torpedoed by an unseen German submarine while fifty-five miles off Old Head of Kinsale, Ireland, on her way to New York. Four hundred and twenty-three souls were on board—180 passengers and 243 crew. She sank in ten minutes.

Latest advices from Queenstown say that thirty-two lives were lost, five of the passengers and twenty-seven of the crew. This means that 75 of the 180 passengers and 216 of the crew of 243 were saved.

From the most accurate information obtainable there were about 35 Americans aboard. It is learned from Liverpool that there were some score of Americans among the crew, and the White Star officials in London state that fifteen American passengers sailed.

The Arabic was torpedoed without warning. She was struck on the starboard side, 100 feet from the stern, one torpedo being sufficient to do the work. Fortunately for those on board the weather was fair and the sea calm. But the item which counted for most in saving so many of the passengers was the splendid efficiency of the crew, who managed to load sixteen life boats and lower them safely before the steamer turned over. The White Star company received the following dispatch from Queenstown:

Hit Without Warning.

"The vessel was torpedoed without warning. She was struck on the starboard side, about 100 feet from the stern. She sank in ten minutes. Am able to state the approximate numbers saved as 175 passengers and 216 crew. All survivors have been landed. These include Captain Finch, all deck officers, chief engineer, doctor, purser, assistant purser, chief steward, second steward, chief third class steward and chief storekeeper. After carefully checking the passenger list find that only five or six are missing."

Seven Americans had booked passage on the Arabic, according to the White Star company's office. They were Zeeliah Covington and wife, J. F. Rowley of Chicago, P. W. A. Collins and wife, Fred Martin of Winston-Salem, N. C., and E. E. Woods.

The Arabic's grave is about forty miles south of the spot where the Lusitania lies. She went down sixty-five miles southeast of Fastnet rock and fifty-five miles south of Old Head of Kinsale, both on the south coast of Ireland, in a region where German submarines have been active since the opening of the war zone decree.

Either shortly before or just after the Arabic was destroyed the British steamer Dunsley was torpedoed, presumably by the same submarine that sank the Arabic. The shot fired at the Dunsley, however, did not take such good effect, and the steamer was able to proceed slowly under her own steam.

Wireless advices from the British steamer Magnolia said that the Dunsley was standing by the Arabic and helping to pick up her passengers. The Dunsley, a vessel of 5,000 tons gross, left Liverpool Wednesday, as did the Arabic.

Details of the Attack.

That the loss of life was not greater doubtless was due to the fact that the weather was fine and that steamers plying the submarine war zone now keep their boats swung out and otherwise are prepared for emergencies.

The torpedo that sank the Arabic struck her on the starboard side, 100 feet from her stern.

The vessel left Liverpool Wednesday afternoon and was taking a southerly course, well off the Irish coast, doubtless with a view of avoiding the submarines which frequent the waters nearer the shore.

When some fifty miles west of where the Lusitania was sunk in May, the German underwater boat rose to the surface and launched a torpedo. The marksmanship of the Germans, as in the case of the Lusitania, was deadly accurate and, like the Lusitania, the big liner quickly settled and shortly disappeared from view.

Some of the survivors, according to reports here, say that they had just witnessed the torpedoing of a British steamer, presumably the Dunsley, and that this had caused great alarm on board the Arabic.

Governmental dispatches give the names of three more Americans saved, making the number of known saved 122 and of Americans saved 21, leaving 59 passengers still unaccounted for, four of these being Americans.

Thirty persons were injured, some seriously, and have been placed in a hospital at Queenstown. Forty-eight are missing, and it is supposed that these were drowned.

STORM TOLL IS ENORMOUS

Houston, Tex., Aug. 20.—Late intelligence from the gulf coast district swept by the hurricane places the number of dead outside Galveston as 101 and the missing 200, half of whom are believed to be dead. Twenty lost their lives in Galveston, making the total dead 130. Reports indicate the property damage would be less than $15,000,000, all told, with Galveston and Houston the heaviest sufferers.

A correspondent returned from Galveston with the estimate that property damage there would be about $10,000,000. Estimates based on reports received in Dallas placed the Galveston damage as low as $3,000,000. In Houston property valued at $1,000,000 to $2,000,000 was destroyed.

The list of reported dead fluctuated as the hours passed and it was believed probable that the exact number of dead could never be definitely determined. The latest list reported follows: Virginia Point, 50; Texas City, 32; Brazos Lifesaving Station, 19; Galveston, 14; Patton, 10; Morgan's Point, 7; Hitchcock, 7; Laporte, 7; Fort Arthur, 5; Beaumont, 20; Sylvan Beach, 3; Lynchburg, 3; Seabrook, 3; Houston, 5; Dickinson, 1; on boat Sam Barnard, 2; on boats Waverly and Guyton, 15; Jennings Island, 3; Freeport, 1; Sour Lake, 1; Alvin, 1; Orange, 1.

Several vessels have been listed as missing.

The sea returned to normal aspect at Galveston and the last rainstorm following the hurricane has ceased.

General Franklin J. Bell of the Second division at Texas City has asked contributions of clothing for soldiers of his command and particularly their families. The camp at Texas City was destroyed. At a meeting of Houston business men resolutions were adopted offering a camp site for the Second division at some point near Houston.

Columbus, Aug. 20.—Governor Willis wired Newton M. In refusing to approve food bills, Donahy declared them "exorbitant and a raw deal to the state." "They show," he said, "Ohio officials at the fair have made the state their meal ticket for five months."

Washington, Aug. 20.—Representative Frank Buchanan of Illinois, organizer of the Labor National Peace council, announces in a letter that he is out of the council. In his letter Mr. Buchanan says that government monopoly of the manufacture of all war munitions would destroy the strongest factor that is creating militarism.

Brownsville, Tex., Aug. 20.—It was learned authentically here that at San Benito two Mexicans were taken from the city jail by a small number of unknown Americans and shot to death. Their bodies afterwards were buried on the roadside. Four other Mexicans held in jail at Mercedes were taken out and also killed. The first two Mexicans had participated in the murder of the two Austins two weeks ago, near Sebastian. The other four were held for taking part in the attack on the United States troopers, one of whom, Private Windhouse, was killed. There have been no arrests.

A FAMOUS SUBMARINE.

In Its Day Le Diable Marin Was Considered a Marvel.

Le Diable Marin (the Sea Devil) was one of the most famous of the nineteenth century submarines. It was the invention of Wilhelm Bauer, who launched it in 1856.

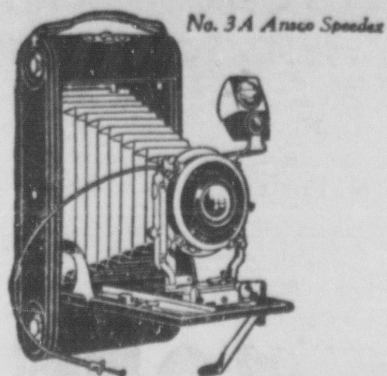

This vessel was built of iron. She was fifty-two feet long, twelve feet wide and eleven feet deep and shaped somewhat like a dolphin. Her sides were six-tenths of an inch thick and could resist the pressure of a 150 foot column of water.

The motive power was provided by a screw, which was operated by a treadmill, and the up or down motion was achieved by shifting water in longitudinal tanks by means of pistons.

At the bow was a bomb or torpedo containing fifty pounds of powder, and near it were two heavy india rubber gloves, by means of which a man inside the vessel could reach out and fasten the bomb to the bottom or side of a ship. To purify the air Bauer arranged long pipes, which were quite effective in revivifying the stale air for a short time.

The Russian government supplied him with a crew of eighteen men, who were to make a trial trip with him, but on his first descent they were so alarmed as to be useless, and when the Diable Marin rose again to the surface they cried, "Praise be to God!"

When his men were more accustomed to the work Bauer executed many wonderful maneuvers and on one occasion stayed under water while he wrote letters to his mother, King Maximilian of Bavaria and the Grand Duke Constantine.—Boston Globe.

HIS FRIEND THE RAT.

The Mine Disaster Story That Went With a Stuffed Rodent.

Any man who will keep a stuffed rat in his room wherever he goes must have a story to tell about the rat. This man has.

"This story," he said, "concerns an experience that made my hair curl. I am an engineer. I was once retained to report upon the working of a mine in southern Arizona. The mine was called the Barbara. On an adjoining claim was another mine called the Hyperion. A dispute arose. The Hyperion people claimed that the lower levels of the Barbara had been bored into their ground and half a dozen fortunes in ore taken out of their mine."

"The first thing to do was to make a survey of the Barbara. The Barbara people, of course, objected. Finally, an order for the survey was secured from the court, and I was sent, with a man named Jim Banks, to make the survey."

"There are tricks in all trades, and the Barbara representative knew a few in his. When we reached the mine he said that the tunnel we wished to explore was in a dangerous condition. There had been a cave-in, the timbers were rotted, and so on."

"We classed him as a liar, though he turned out to be right. We worked our way into the tunnel until we ran against a jam of fallen timbers. The timbers, however, were sound and had plainly been arranged to stop our progress. Banks went back for an ax, while I worked at the roof with a pick to dislodge the center pieces."

"I succeeded and had climbed halfway over into the other side of the tunnel when there came a terrific crash of loose ore from the roof. It fell on both sides of the timbers, pinning me in a hole which would have been a grave but for a few sticks which held the mass of ore above."

"The place was barely large enough to move in, and I knew it was certain death in a few hours unless Banks could dig me out."

"The foul air was getting into my brain, and I think I was actually insane with the fearful dread of being buried alive."

"I had given up all hope and was almost swooning when I heard a strange, scraping sound above me. I yelled, but received no answer. With new energy I threw my body against the walls and tried to pick out the ore from between the lodged timbers. Still came the queer scraping noise, which seemed to come nearer and sounded not unlike the steady grinding of a saw. It seemed to last for hours, though it could hardly have been a minute after when a bit of earth dropped to my feet from the upper end of the wall, and along with it came a big gray mine rat."

"That rat saved my life, for he left a clear hole for his trail, and through it came a breath of fresh air that gave life to me. The fellow had bored his way through from the shaft side of the cave. I stayed there two hours after that, until Banks found the cave, got help and dug me out without breaking the airhole."

"I caught the gray rat too. I kept him fed up like a king until he died, and I wouldn't take a lot of money for his skin now."—New York Times.

ATTACK BRINGS TENSE FEELING IN THE CAPITAL

Washington, Aug. 20.—If the steamship Arabic, carrying American passengers, was torpedoed by a German submarine without warning, as asserted by the officials of the White Star line, it clearly falls within the scope of the "deliberately unfriendly" act against which Germany was warned in the last note sent by the United States on the submarine issue. This was acknowledged informally by officials here.

While the German attack upon the Arabic would thus seem to call for action on the part of this government in support of the president's warning to Germany, it is realized here that the seriousness of the situation will depend on whether or not any American passengers on the Arabic lost their lives. On this point the state department is without any definite information.

The belief in Washington is that the people of the United States will not demand drastic action toward Germany unless American lives have been sacrificed. The president and his advisers will not of course undertake to go any further than the sentiment of the country will support, and it is acknowledged even by high officials of the administration that Americans as a whole do not seem desirous at this time of forcing the issue with Germany to the extent of an open break. The general feeling in the national capital is that nothing short of loss of American life in connection with the sinking of the Arabic would lead to any likelihood of drastic action.

The president conversed frequently over the telephone with Secretary of State Lansing. His wait developed the cheering news that most of the passengers were saved, but the president plainly was depressed. Later he went automobiling, giving consideration alone to the problem which faces the government.

and Edmund Woods were still unaccounted for among the American passengers. Miss Josephine Bruguiere's home is in New York. Edmund Woods' home is in Janesville, Wis.

London, Aug. 20.—The White Star liner Arabic, of 15,861 tons, was torpedoed by an unseen German submarine while fifty-five miles off Old Head of Kinsale, Ireland, on her way to New York. Four hundred and twenty-three souls were on board—189 passengers and 243 crew. She sank in ten minutes.

Latest advices from Queenstown say that thirty-two lives were lost, five of the passengers and twenty-seven of the crew. This means that 75 of the 189 passengers and 216 of the crew of 243 were saved.

From the most accurate information obtainable there were about 35 Americans aboard. It is learned from Liverpool that there were some score of Americans among the crew, and the White Star officials in London state that fifteen American passengers sailed.

The Arabic was torpedoed without warning. She was struck on the starboard side, about 100 feet from the stern, one torpedo being sufficient to do the work. Fortunately for those on board the weather was fair and the sea calm. But the item which counted for most in saving so many of the passengers was the splendid efficiency of the crew, who managed to load sixteen life boats and lower them safely before the steamer turned over. The White Star company received the following dispatch from Queenstown:

Hit Without Warning.
"The vessel was torpedoed without warning. She was struck on the starboard side, about 100 feet from the stern. She sank in ten minutes. Am able to state the approximate numbers saved as 175 passengers and 216 crew. All survivors have been landed. These include Captain Finch, all deck officers, chief engineer, doctor, purser, assistant purser, chief steward, second steward, chief third class steward and chief storekeeper. After carefully checking the passenger list find that only five or six are missing."

Seven Americans had booked passage on the Arabic, according to the White Star company's office. They were Zeelach Covington and wife, J. F. Rowley of Chicago, P. W. A. Collins and wife, Fred Martin of Winston-Salem, N. C., and E. E. Woods. The Arabic's grave is about forty miles south of the spot where the Lusitania lies. She went down sixty-five miles southeast of Fastnet rock and fifty-five miles south of Old Head of Kinsale, both on the south coast of Ireland, in a region where German submarines have been active since the opening of the war zone decree.

Either shortly before or just after the Arabic was destroyed the British steamer Dunsley was torpedoed, presumably by the same submarine that sank the Arabic. The shot fired at the Dunsley, however, did not take such good effect, and the steamer was able to proceed slowly under her own steam.

Wireless advices from the British steamer Magnolia said that the Dunsley was standing by the Arabic and helping to pick up her passengers. The Dunsley, a vessel of 5,000 tons gross, left Liverpool Wednesday, as did the Arabic.

Details of the Attack.
That the loss of life was not greater doubtless was due to the fact that the weather was fine and that steamers plying the submarine war zone now keep their boats swung out and otherwise are prepared for emergencies.

The torpedo that sank the Arabic struck her on the starboard side, 100 feet from her stern.

The vessel left Liverpool Wednesday afternoon and was taking a southerly course, well off the Irish coast, doubtless with a view of avoiding the submarines which frequent the waters nearer the shore. When some fifty miles west of where the Lusitania was sunk in May, the German underwater boat rose to the surface and launched a torpedo. The marksmanship of the Germans, as in the case of the Lusitania, was deadly accurate and, like the Lusitania, the big liner quickly settled and shortly disappeared from view.

Some of the survivors, according to reports here, say that they had just witnessed the torpedoing of a British steamer, presumably the Dunsley, and that this had caused great alarm on board the Arabic.

Governmental dispatches give the names of three more Americans saved, making the number of known saved 122 and of Americans saved 21, leaving 59 passengers still unaccounted for, four of these being Americans.

Thirty persons were injured, some seriously, and have been placed in a hospital at Queenstown. Forty-eight are missing, and it is supposed that these were drowned.

STORM TOLL IS ENORMOUS

Houston, Tex., Aug. 20.—Late intelligence from the Gulf coast district swept by the hurricane places the number of dead outside Galveston at 101 and the missing 200, half of whom are believed to be dead. Twenty lost their lives in Galveston, making the total dead 130. Reports indicate the property damage would be less than $15,000,000, all told, with Galveston and Houston the heaviest sufferers.

A correspondent returned from Galveston with the estimate that property damage there would be about $10,000,000. Estimates based on reports received in Dallas placed the Galveston damage as low as $2,000,000. In Houston property valued at $1,000,000 to $2,000,000 was destroyed.

The list of reported dead fluctuated as the hours passed and it was believed probable that the exact number of dead could never be definitely determined. The latest list reported follows: Virginia Point, 50; Texas City, 32; Brazos Lifesaving Station, 19; Galveston, 14; Patton, 10; Morgan's Point, 7; Hitchcock, 7; Laporte, 7; Fort Arthur, 5; Beaumont, 20; Sylvan Beach, 3; Lynchburg, 3; Seabrook, 3; Houston, 5; Dickinson, 1; on boat Sam Barnard, 2; on boats Waverly and Guyton, 15; Jennings Island, 3; Freeport, 1; Sour Lake, 1; Alvin, 1; Orange, 1.

Several vessels have been listed as missing.

The sea returned to normal aspect at Galveston and the last rainstorm following the hurricane has ceased.

General Franklin J. Bell of the Second division at Texas City has asked contributions of clothing for soldiers of his command and particularly their families. The camp at Texas City was destroyed. At a meeting of Houston business men resolutions were adopted offering a camp site for the Second division at some point near Houston.

SCRAMBLE FOR DOPE

Columbus, Aug. 20.—Governor Willis wired Newton M. Miller, directing commissioner for Ohio to the Panama-Pacific exposition, demanding explanation of bills for entertainments at the Ohio building which State Auditor Donahey disapproved as extravagant. In a statement regarding this telegram the governor declared that Donahey had approved vouchers for like expenses of Miller's Democratic predecessor, Daniel B. Torpy of Marietta, and called on Donahey "to make what is sauce for the goose sauce for the gander."

In refusing to approve food bills, Donahey declared them "exorbitant and a raw deal to the state." "They show," he said, "Ohio officials at the fair have made the state their meal ticket for five months."

VIEWS AIRD BY BUCHANAN

Washington, Aug. 20.—Representative Frank Buchanan of Illinois, organizer of the Labor National Peace council, announces in a letter that he is out of the council. Buchanan recently criticized Secretary Tumulty and the president because they had been unable, on account of the president's important engagements, to give him and a delegation from the peace council an audience with Mr. Wilson. In his letter Mr. Buchanan says that government monopoly of the manufacture of all war munitions would destroy the strongest factor that is creating militarism.

FOUR STRIKES ARE IMMINENT

Washington, Aug. 20.—Sanction was given by the executive board of the International Association of Machinists for four strikes, if necessary, to enforce the demand of workmen for an eight-hour day in the machine tool industry. These strikes, if ordered, will occur in New York and New England and will call out about 15,000 men. This is believed to have been the result of the appearance before the executive board of J. J. Keppier of New York, who is vice president of the international association and field man for New York and New England.

What Does It All Mean?

The German armies continue their advance in the east, capturing one after another of the Russian strongholds and supply bases. Many cities, supposedly of great importance in military operations, along the line of the railroads leading to Petrograd have passed under the absolute control of the Kaiser's forces, the western termini of the Czar's great railroad system are held by the Germans and the great armies under Grand Duke Nicholas continue their orderly retreat with apparently little concern over the fact that every day city after city and fortress after fortress is taken by the Germans.

The conduct of both Germans and Russians in the campaign in the east is the cause of wonderment to the expert in military tactics as well as to the men unskilled in the art of war.

Just why Germany and Austria should continue their forward movement at such enormous cost with no present prospect, so far as the censored news discloses, of capturing any considerable fighting force, is not just exactly clear. Neither is it plain why the Russian armies surrender or abandon so many cities and forts with so little resistance.

It is scarcely probable that Germany regards the capture of Russian cities as any real advantage. The German commanders are too well schooled in warfare to pay such enormous prices for the empty honor of capturing cities even though the effect on the people back home who pay the cost of war, is, admittedly, good.

The Russians also, must be credited with the knowledge that military bases should not be surrendered without every resistance possible to make safe only that which would sacrifice their armies.

Yet Germany continues to take city after city and pay dearly for it, and the Russian army continues to retreat and abandon territory to the Germans with little or no resistance.

What it all means is a problem to experts.

Whether either or both contending forces are acting in accordance with a well developed plan and, if one, which one, and if both, which will be successful, are other problems for the consideration of military expert and civilian alike.

The lack of activity in the west and the nature of the campaigning in the east strengthen the belief that something of great moment is about to occur.

"High Times" at the Fair

State Auditor Donahey again has taken the war path on account of attempted expenditures of the public revenues by public officials.

The immediate cause for Mr. Donahey's vigorous and public objection to "expense accounts," is the July "grocery and meat" bill turned in by the appointees and employees in charge of the Ohio building at the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco.

It seems that this particular account contains several items of charge for wine, whiskey, card tables, music and the like. The state auditor, instead of using his pencil to approve that expense account, laid hold of his most effective weapon—publicity—and proceeded to wield it vigorously.

The argument that such items of expense are necessary in the accounts of the officials in charge of the headquarters at the big fair, does not appeal to Mr. Donahey. The state auditor is a bit old fashioned and he is unable to see just why the money of the people of Ohio should be spent for "high times" and high living by those who are supposed to assist, in every way possible, Ohio visitors and their friends and to look after the entertainment of those who journey to San Francisco for real pleasure and instruction.

The percentage of Ohio visitors at San Francisco who would require wine, whiskey, cards and the like for their enjoyment is small indeed. Mr. Donahey believes that the people's money should be expended as the majority of the people desire and not for the lavish entertainment of a few only.

In that same connection Mr. Donahey calls attention to the fact that the several expositions throughout the nation during the last decade, have cost Ohio tax payers more than two million dollars.

The latest public utterances of Mr. Donahey serve to remind the people that they have a man in charge of the state books who, while he may get a little tiresome at times, is going to stand guard over the people's money and see to it that it is only paid out for legitimate purposes.

Many Ohio people have suspected for some time that the top-heavy Panama-Pacific exposition commission was not burdened with a multitude of difficult tasks and denied an adequate compensation.

The latest expose tends to confirm that suspicion.

It shows too that the people of the state can well afford to be patient with Mr. Donahey's efforts to maintain perpetual publicity, because he frequently does things worth talking about.

This is one of the real good turns he has made.

Poetry For Today

FROM "THE ROCK POOL."

Bright as a fallen fragment of the sky,
Mid shell-encrusted rocks the sea-pool shone,
Glassing the sunset-clouds in its clear heart,
A small enchanted world enwalled apart in diamond mystery,
Content with its own dreams, its own strict zone
Of rushin woods, its fairy bights and bars,
Its daisy-disked anemones and rose-feathered stars.

Forsaken for a while by the deep roar
Which : : : :
Drags down the cliffs, bids the great hills go by
And shepherds their multitudinous pageantry—
Here, on the ebb-tide shore,
Jewelled path of beauty, sparkling still,
The little sea-pool smiled away the sea,
And slept on its own plane of bright tranquillity.
—Alfred Noyes.

Wood Pulp.

Observation of nature has often suggested ideas to business men. Many years ago James G. Blaine said to Dr. Hill that there was a rapidly diminishing supply of rags and cotton for papermaking. That set Dr. Hill thinking. One day he came into the office of a paper manufacturer holding a hornet's nest in his hand. "Why cannot you make paper like this?" he said. Dr. Hill's trained eye had seen that the hornet began making its nest by chewing up particles of wood into a fine pulp. That illustration led to the use of wood pulp for making paper.

Killed by Fear.

Frederick I. of Prussia was killed by fear. His wife was insane, and one day she escaped from her keeper and, dabbled her clothes with blood, rushed upon her husband while he was dozing in his chair. King Frederick imagined her to be the "white lady" whose ghost was believed to invariably appear whenever the death of a member of the royal family was to occur, and he was thrown into a fever and died in six weeks.

Luke McLuke Says

When a woman gets a new hat with a bird on it all she sees is the plumage and all her husband sees is the bill.

Cheer up! If you are broke on Sunday and your pants are so shiny on the seat that you have to stay home all day you know that your name is not going to appear in the list of joy ride victims on Monday morning.

We do not manage things right in this world. We always applaud those who try to sing in public when we should have our applause for those who do not try to sing.

Some men never get ahead because they regard one half their tasks as too big for them to handle and the other half as too insignificant to handle.

Leave it to the husbands and wives and you will learn that the ideal husband and the ideal wife live farther up the street.

After a woman has fought dishwater and dirt for a man for ten years the man wonders why her hands are not soft and white like those of the princesses he meets downtown.

A man will spend five hours convincing his wife that white is white, and five seconds later she will forget that she has been convinced.

The fellow who tries to play poker with a chip on his shoulder never keeps many chips on the table in front of him.

When a man can't meet his bills he doesn't want to meet his creditors.

Some men possess a remarkable ability to say what they mean without letting any one else know.

A bride doesn't know it, but her sweeping has just begun when she sweeps up the church aisle.

Too many men imagine that just because they have succeeded in keeping out of jail they have a cinch on a seat in heaven.

When a man and a woman agree to marry it is often the last thing they agree on.

A reader wants to know who is the prettiest girl in the United States, in Luke's opinion. That's easy. She is reading this paragraph right now. Watch her blush!

The tango has grabbed such a hold on the girls that a man who has one leg shorter than the other hates to walk down the street. Every time he dips the girls want to dip too.

LIKE A MONEY TREE.

Simple and Profitable Scheme of a Kongo Trading Company.

The possibilities of a really enterprising trading company are realized at Kinku, central Africa, where the Kongo Oriental company owns all stores, where money can be spent and fixes its own prices for ivory, rubber, labor and trade goods. "It was as if by planting a few francs in the ground money bearing trees had sprung into existence." The lucrative procedure is explained in James Barnes' "Through Central Africa."

"As soon as a native was paid cash for anything, either as an advance or for services rendered, he hastened hot-foot to the company's stores and bought anything from a harmonicon to a secondhand gold braided uniform, and as the profit in these articles ran from 100 to 250 per cent it can easily be seen where the money trees come in.

"The man who had brought in ivory was paid for it in cash at a rate that insured a profit of about 150 per cent, and immediately he repaired to the store, where he bought things he had no use for, giving another profit of cent per cent at least. The money was sent from the store to the company's offices, where the native was paid for carrying the ivory on the first stage of its long journey to the coast. The money received was the same that had been paid for the ivory in the first place, and the bearer would surely come back and spend his wages at the store again.

"It was a lovely system, and the only real chance for loss was the wear and tear on the money itself and the expense of bookkeeping. If the native demanded an extra price for ivory or labor there was very little trouble made over it—the extra cost was added to the articles in the store."

TOO HAUGHTY TO WORK.

English Servants Will Not Do What They Think Beneath Them.

The Lowells lived at 31 Lowndes square, having moved there from another house in the same square. Their establishment was not magnificent, but adequate, with a sufficient complement of servants. These servants were engaged for special posts in the "service," as is always the custom in England, and each was a stickler for his prerogatives and perquisites and quick to resent any demand that did not fall in the province of his sharply defined duties.

It so happened that in moving a carpet from the former house had been put down in the new one, leaving a few inches uncovered in a corner, which the furnishers had overlooked. As there was a dinner party at the embassy that night and Mrs. Lowell possessed a piece of the carpeting to cover the bare spot on the floor, she rang for one of the menservants and asked him if he would kindly tack it down for her. He drew himself up, distinctly offended in his pride.

"I beg your pardon, your excellency," he said, "but it is not my place to do that. I will ring for Alfred."

Alfred appeared, and his answer to the same request was:

"I beg pardon, your excellency, but it is not my place to lay carpets. I will call Charles."

And Charles came with the same answer. Mrs. Lowell called up, I think, every male servant in the house, but one and all stuck their noses in the air and looked with disdain upon the humiliating hammer and tacks. She then had them stand in a row while she herself proceeded to nail down the small corner of carpet and instantly dismissed them from her service.—Princess Lazarovich in Century.

Poetry For Today

FROM "THE ROCK POOL."

Bright as a fallen fragment of the sky,
Mid shell-encrusted rocks the sea-pool shone,
Glassing the sunset-clouds in its clear heart,
A small enchanted world enwalled apart in diamond mystery,
Content with its own dreams, its own strict zone
Of ruchin woods, its fairy bights and bars,
Its daisy-disked anemones and rose-feathered stars.

Forsaken for a while by the deep roar
Which : : : :
Drags down the cliffs, bids the great hills go by
And shepherds their multitudinous pageantry—
Here, on the ebb-tide shore,
Jewelled path of beauty, sparkling still,
The little sea-pool smiled away the sea,
And slept on its own plane of bright tranquillity.
—Alfred Noyes.

What Does It All Mean?

The German armies continue their advance in the east, capturing one after another of the Russian strongholds and supply bases. Many cities, supposedly of great importance in military operations, along the line of the railroads leading to Petrograd have passed under the absolute control of the Kaiser's forces, the western termini of the Czar's great railroad system are held by the Germans and the great armies under Grand Duke Nicholas continue their orderly retreat with apparently little concern over the fact that every day city after city and fortress after fortress is taken by the Germans.

The conduct of both Germans and Russians in the campaign in the east is the cause of wonderment to the expert in military tactics as well as to the men unskilled in the art of war.

Just why Germany and Austria should continue their forward movement at such enormous cost with no present prospect, so far as the censored news discloses, of capturing any considerable fighting force, is not just exactly clear. Neither is it plain why the Russian armies surrender or abandon so many cities and forts with so little resistance.

It is scarcely probable that Germany regards the capture of Russian cities as any real advantage. The German commanders are too well schooled in warfare to pay such enormous prices for the empty honor of capturing cities even though the effect on the people back home who pay the cost of war, is, admittedly, good.

The Russians also, must be credited with the knowledge that military bases should not be surrendered without every resistance possible to make safe only that which would sacrifice their armies.

Yet Germany continues to take city after city and pay dearly for it, and the Russian army continues to retreat and abandon territory to the Germans with little or no resistance.

What it all means is a problem to experts.

Whether either or both contending forces are acting in accordance with a well developed plan and, if one, which one, and if both, which will be successful, are other problems for the consideration of military expert and civilian alike.

The lack of activity in the west and the nature of the campaigning in the east strengthen the belief that something of great moment is about to occur.

"High Times" at the Fair

State Auditor Donahey again has taken the war path on account of attempted expenditures of the public revenues by public officials.

The immediate cause for Mr. Donahey's vigorous and public objection to "expense accounts," is the July "grocery and meat" bill turned in by the appointees and employees in charge of the Ohio building at the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco.

It seems that this particular account contains several items of charge for wine, whiskey, card tables, music and the like. The state auditor, instead of using his pencil to approve that expense account, laid hold of his most effective weapon—publicity—and proceeded to wield it vigorously.

The argument that such items of expense are necessary in the accounts of the officials in charge of the headquarters at the big fair, does not appeal to Mr. Donahey. The state auditor is a bit old fashioned and he is unable to see just why the money of the people of Ohio should be spent for "high times" and high living by those who are supposed to assist, in every way possible, Ohio visitors and their friends and to look after the entertainment of those who journey to San Francisco for real pleasure and instruction.

The percentage of Ohio visitors at San Francisco who would require wine, whiskey, cards and the like for their enjoyment is small indeed. Mr. Donahey believes that the people's money should be expended as the majority of the people desire and not for the lavish entertainment of a few only.

In that same connection Mr. Donahey calls attention to the fact that the several expositions throughout the nation during the last decade, have cost Ohio tax payers more than two million dollars.

The latest public utterances of Mr. Donahey serve to remind the people that they have a man in charge of the state books who, while he may get a little tiresome at times, is going to stand guard over the people's money and see to it that it is only paid out for legitimate purposes.

Many Ohio people have suspected for some time that the top-heavy Panama-Pacific exposition commission was not burdened with a multitude of difficult tasks and denied an adequate compensation.

The latest expose tends to confirm that suspicion.

It shows too that the people of the state can well afford to be patient with Mr. Donahey's efforts to maintain perpetual publicity, because he frequently does things worth talking about.

This is one of the real good turns he has made.

TRAIN KILLS MAN WHO DID NOT HEED WHISTLE

Thomas Ralston, Farm Laborer, Instantly Killed on Pennsylvania Bridge, Near Cemetery, By Passenger Train - Believed He Deliberately Allowed Train to Hit Him - Grieved Over Death of His Wife.

During a fit of melancholy Thursday afternoon, Thomas Ralston, aged 40, a farm hand who had been employed by Mr. Edwin Weaver for the past year, sat upon the Pennsylvania bridge over Paint creek, immediately east of the Washington cemetery, and allowed west bound passenger train No. 19 to strike him causing almost instant death.

Grief over the death of his wife some 14 months ago is said to have caused him to become greatly dejected, and it is thought he deliberately planned his own death.

Shrieks of the whistle failed to arouse the man as he sat upon the bridge and when the engineer saw that he was not dealing with a normal man he tried in vain to stop his train, but the down grade and speed at which he was going made all efforts futile and his engine struck the man, killing him almost instantly.

When picked up from the ground below, the unfortunate man was dead, his head having been crushed.

one arm broken, his hip fractured, and numerous cuts and bruises inflicted upon his body.

Some 45 minutes prior to Ralston's death he passed the home of L. M. Maag on Elm street, where Maag was engaged in cutting corn. Ralston discovered Maag and shouted: "What are you cutting corn on Sunday for?" After a few other remarks along the same line he continued on down the street and up the railroad track.

From another party it is learned that a short time before the man stationed himself upon the bridge he was seen at his wife's grave, tears coursing down his face and in the deepest mental agony.

It is supposed that while still under the mental anguish and with no thought save for the departed wife, he sat down upon the track to await the train.

A short time ago he asked Mr. Weaver to keep enough money out of his salary to pay for the lot beside that of his wife in the cemetery, saying that he wished to have the lot paid for. Mr. Weaver did as he requested.

Friday morning his relatives from Chillicothe arrived to make arrangements for the funeral services. His parents and other relatives reside in Ross County, and until about seven years ago the deceased also resided there.

The remains will be shipped to his former home in Chillicothe, where burial will be made Saturday.

LAST DAY OF THE FAIR IS CLAIMED BY WEATHERMAN

Steady Downpour Too Much for Crowds After Racing Is Spoiled and Fair Board Brings Fair to Close This Afternoon—1,000 on the Fair Grounds at Noon—12,000 Present Thursday.

Once more the weather man has taken a hand in abruptly ending the Fayette County Fair, the steady downpour of rain, which began Friday morning and continued over the noon hour and at two o'clock was still working overtime. When it became apparent that the track could not be used, the fair automatically came to an end, with many people disappointed.

The threatening weather of early Friday morning did not prevent fully 1,000 persons entering the grounds, and many remained up town with the hope that the sun would burst forth and the last day of the fair would not be spoiled.

A good racing card was cancelled, and when it was learned that the races were called off, those holding concessions got busy packing up ready for departure.

Thursday was one of the best fair days in recent years with the weather almost ideal, and some 12,000 persons upon the ground.

The crowd watching the races filled the grandstand to overflowing, lined the track and large numbers thronged the quarter stretch. Automobiles and vehicles of every description covered acres of ground. The balloon ascension was unusually good, Prof. Robinson landing west of the fair grounds after a perfect parachute drop.

Thursday's Horse Shows.

Carried through morning and afternoon sessions, the show classes were full of interest for the many spectators. In the morning the Roadster classes were shown on the track in front of the grand stand. Charles Allen with a choice lot from Springdale Stock Farm carried away the most honors and with Baron Bond and four of his get won the class for sire and produce. A little feature of this class, one of the many small things that the fair board is putting into practice for the first time this year, is the payment to the persons who actually handle the colts in the ring, of $1.00.

This sum is paid to encourage proper interest.

The class for the roadster championship, for which a silver cup was added by W. M. Campbell to the ten dollars that went to the winner, was won in handy fashion by Edward Mershon, with a chestnut gelding, with Dr. J. C. McCoy second. Earl Swepton, who is starting the trotters and pacers in the races, made the awards.

The afternoon show was featured in the infield and was confined to Belgians, with an added attraction, the Hagler Trophy, this being a silver cup properly engraved, and to be won by the best draft mare, any breed and any age.

A few minutes after two o'clock, the drafters swung into the track and fully fifty in number, made a superb appearance as they passed to the judging ring in the center field. The Belgian horse is making wonderful strides in popularity in the county at this time and the impression the breed made at this fair will do it a lot of good. The showing of horses during the time the racing is in progress is an innovation that, judged by the interest shown by the crowds that lined the ring, will be permanent.

And the quality of the horses exhibited, progress in breeding demonstrated by the colts that are being produced, makes the effort that the fair board is making to better exploit home products, a timely one.

The first class, that for the mature stallions, brought before the judge three massive specimens of the breed, the three of a uniform excellence that made the task of selecting the honor one far from easy.

They were chestnut in color, and all of the correct type and finish of the highest standards of the breed. The judge's work was then of that most skillful, technical sort, that lacking an outstanding individual on which to tie the first, and by which to measure the rest, must arrive at his decision by means of the little things. And only an expert, trained in eye, and wise in knowledge of true type, can catch and qualify the minute qualities, the more easy flexion of movement, the better set of limbs while standing at rest, the possibility of a better heritage to the colts to follow, all are weighed in the judicial balance. Judge Fyfe went over each contestant, and went finally to Bionfay Second, owned by Roy Hagler for the first, with Minos, owned by Elton Marine second, giving third to Frank L. Parrett, who showed Boliver. A very close decision and one that made friends for each of the three.

The younger classes then followed with Messrs Howard Hagler, Roy Hagler, Parrett, Marine and Miller scoring wins. The final, the class for the silver cup offered by Ben Jamison for the best Belgian stallion of any age, had eight entries, with the prize going to Roy Hagler and the reserve to Elton Marine. After the Belgian classes, came the battle of the breeds when draft mares of all breeds could show for the Hagler trophy. With the donor not competing, the struggle was between the Janes mare Veda, that was first of her sex in the Percheron section and a chestnut mare from the Parrett string. Veda, who is entered at both Ohio and Michigan State Fairs was finally able to annex the honor.

The work of the Judge, David Fyfe of the Ohio State University was well received. Always careful, searching and painstaking, he was a stickler for soundness, action and type and many men who followed his decisions carefully, have a better insight into the why of draft horse breeding, feeding and conditioning, preparation and showing. It might be well to add that when the management came to settle for the judging, expecting to pay what such skillful services are worth, that Mr. Fyfe refused to accept any remuneration whatever, saying that he was only too glad to have been of service, and that his pleasure in such a good show and his admiration for Fayette county and personal acquaintance with her people, together with the encouragement and help that the University desires to give to the people of the state, precluded his receiving any fee.

STUDEBAKER MAN HERE TO SELL FLUSHER

Mr. N. A. Crawford, of the Studebaker Company, of South Bend, Indiana, was in the city Friday to interest local officials in a street flusher, and as a result of his visit it is understood some consideration may be given the proposal offered by Mr. Crawford.

Some ten days ago Mr. Crawford was in the city and found conditions so favorable for a street flusher that he stopped over again on his way to Columbus.

Mr. Crawford stated that with the $1250 flusher which is manufactured by his firm, streets can be kept cleaner and more sanitary and with less expense than by sprinkling and sweeping, as had been demonstrated countless times with the Studebaker flusher.

The flusher forces the water upon the street surface with great force, and one round trip would be sufficient to clean a street the width of North street. Pressure in the tank is supplied by a small gasoline engine attached to the flusher. One flusher full (750 gallons) will clean one and one quarter squares of street 40 feet in width, states Mr. Crawford.

Once or twice each week is sufficient for an ordinary residence street and every day or ever other day for much used business streets. Flushing early in the morning before traffic starts insures clean streets during the day.

The debris is carried to the gutter and there easily gathered up and carted away. Very little of the refuse is carried into the sewers.

PLENTY OF DUST WITH NO RELIEF

Residents of North street, along the newly paved portion, are being deluged with a shower of dust as a result of the unclean condition of the newly paved street, where the dust and accumulated filth is becoming so thick in places that the brick surface of the street is entirely hidden.

Sprinkling by means of lawn hose aids in some instances, but the results are not satisfactory, as the number of vehicles using the street quickly transforms the damp surface into a dust again.

While citizens are clamoring for relief, no organized effort has been made by them, and the city officials have taken no steps to look after the matter.

"THE WOOD OF SERVICE"

SOUTHERN YELLOW PINE is called "The Service Wood" because it has the strength and durability of many of the toughest hardwoods, with the easy working qualities of a soft wood. That explains why Southern Yellow Pine is so universally demanded for general building, repairs, and manufacturing—why 30 per cent of all the commercial lumber used in the United States is Southern Yellow Pine.

The United States Government, after making accurate tests of the comparative strength of more than seventy commercial woods, said of Southern Yellow Pine (Longleaf):

"It may be had in long pieces, free from serious defects, and possesses great strength and stiffness. In addition to that, it has enduring qualities which add much to its value. In a large part of the country it is so universally used, that there are but few places of importance it does not fill."

And there is another very important feature, not mentioned by the Government—

Quality considered, Southern Yellow Pine is the least expensive lumber you can buy.

It will be money in your pocket to remember these facts when you go to buy material for building or repairs on the farm or in the home.

In Social Circles

The Elks' Midsummer Dance passed off with exceptional brilliancy and pleasure Thursday night.

The handsome club rooms blazed with light and artistic decoration and an unusual number of lovely gowns added a maze of color to the gay scene. Among the sixty couples joyously participating were a large number of young society people from other cities and a contingent of the Junior set.

Horstman's orchestra furnished beautiful music, playing both new dances and the old favorites. Frequent encores prolonged the dance long after the midnight hour.

An elaborate two-course supper was served. The tables showed artistic skill in their embellishment. Exquisite baskets of pink gladioli and fern, the hoop handles tied with large tulle bows, graced the centers and smilax and fern trailed from the baskets over the damask.

The Elks' social session committee Messrs Bowen, Campbell and Leary, had all arrangements under perfect supervision.

MONEY TO RUN DOWN LYNCHERS

Macon, Ga., Aug. 20.—That Governor Harris means business in his hunt for the lynchers of Leo M. Frank, people in his home city are satisfied. The information was received here from the governor that he has offered half of the entire reward fund of the state for 1915 for the three first convictions of parties guilty of the abduction and lynching of Frank. The fund provided for the purpose of covering executive offers of rewards is limited to $3,000 a year, the maximum in any one case being $500.

The proclamation is so drawn that it leaves room for doubt as to whether the actual slaying of Frank occurred at Marietta, in Cobb county, or at Milledgeville, in Baldwin county. This covers the possibility that Frank was killed by lynchers before the party reached Cobb county, a belief shared in by quite a few. The point is raised that it is entirely probable that the body was displayed at the place where it was found for the purpose and with the intention of forcing trial of the case or cases in the event of apprehension of any of the lynchers in the county where feeling against Frank is bitter and where the family of Mary Phagan, the murdered girl, lived.

Governor Harris issued a statement in which he shows that every possible effort was made to protect the prisoner. "There is no man in the bounds of the state that regrets more deeply than I do this unfortunate occurrence," he says. "I shall do all in my power to discover and bring the perpetrators to justice. Mob law should never take the place of statute law. There will be no safety to life, liberty or property until this is recognized by our people."

Within a few days Georgia will be overrun with detectives. The Marietta police and sheriffs of a dozen counties are also busy on the case and believe that within a short time they will have progress to report. It is probable that the real start of the probe into the lynching will come next Tuesday with the coroner's inquest at Marietta.

Frank's Last Letter.
New York, Aug. 20.—A letter written by Leo M. Frank the day that he was dragged from the Milledgeville jail by lynchers and posted about an hour after he had been taken away on the long automobile ride that preceded his hanging, was made public after Frank's body had arrived in Brooklyn. In it Frank tells of his strength coming back to him, of the ability to move his neck slightly, and the hope that he will be all right in a few days. It was written to G. P. Connolly, the author of "The Truth About the Frank Case."

RUSSIANS MUST AGAIN ABANDON THEIR DEFENSES

London, Aug. 20.—The Teutonic advance on the eastern front is seriously endangering a portion of the Russian army and must soon have an effect on other fronts.

Berlin repeats the claim that the fortress of Kovno has fallen, compelling the Russians in the Kalwarya and Suwalki districts on the East Prussian frontier to fall back. In fact, the Russians now appear able to hold their own only in the Baltic provinces, where they are preventing the Germans from advancing.

Besides the capture of Kovno the Germans have taken additional Novogeorgievsk forts and, according to their account, have penetrated the outer positions of Brest-Litovsk, the great fortress which is the mainstay of what was expected to be the Russians' new line of defense.

There is no evidence yet of Grand Duke Nicholas' intentions, but military writers are of the opinion that the swiftness of the German advance has rendered it impossible for him to make a stand on the Brest-Litovsk line, which already virtually has been turned by Field Marshal Von Mackensen in the south and by his colleagues in the north.

The French have scored two successes in the west, taking a portion of a German trench in Artois after a heavy bombardment and making a further advance on the Linge summit in the Vosges. On both these sectors there has been heavy and continuous fighting, in which the French claim to have greatly improved their positions.

There have been some long distance artillery engagements between Serbians and the Austrians across the Danube, but thus far there is no evidence of the commencement of the Austro-German offensive which was to carry relief to the Turks.

A strong squadron of fast cruisers is being held in readiness to steam from Taranto, Italy, at a moment's notice. It is expected that the warships will be sent against Turkey if that country declines to satisfy Italy's demands for the release of Italian subjects held in the Ottoman empire.

GONZALES HAS THE SOLUTION OF MEX. AFFAIR

Mexico City, Aug. 20.—General Pablo Gonzales, military governor of the federal district, in an interview gave 'as his firm belief that if the United States would recognize the Carranza government Mexico would be pacified within two months.

"The policy of the Constitutionalists," Gonzales said, "is to grant absolute pardons to all Mexicans who come in and surrender unconditionally. But of one thing you may be assured, and that is that there will be no compromise on our part with the enemies of the government. We have determined in the new era of peace which is dawning to see all foreigners and all legitimate property interests are given the fullest protection. Full protection will also be given to the members of the religious orders."

The general asserted that many of those opposed to the Carranzistas had already embraced the offer of amnesty and laid down their arms.

SIGNS OF RAIN.

Simple Things That Tell Us When a Storm Is Brewing.

On the subject of predicting rain, Rollin Lynde Hart in the Woman's Home Companion writes in part as follows:

"There are plenty of soundly scientific weather signs that are right before our eyes and vouched for by the best meteorologists. For instance, the 'ring around the moon,' which is produced by a thin, filmy cloud made up of minute particles of ice—a state of things not built to last. Either some unlooked for commotion will put a stop to it in a different manner, or it will pour 'cats and dogs' within three days at most. In eighty-six cases out of a hundred the rule holds good. A still better sign is the 'ring around the sun.' 'This is science, pure and simple, and so is the old maxim: 'The farther the sight the nearer the rain.' It is not pessimism that makes people along the coast predict a downpour when they can pick out the separate houses on a faraway island, or people in mountainous regions call it 'too good to last,' when a distant peak, generally invisible, comes into view. They are shrewd meteorologists in making these predictions, and also in declaring that sounds carry better when a rainstorm is brewing.

"Of all nice, convincing weather signs, however, a 'sickening sky' is pretty nearly the most reliable. When the deep warm blue grows paler, and then whitish, and your spirits drop, and shadows fray at the edges and disappear, then you have a sickening sky. Rain is not being brought up ready-made from afar, it is being manufactured directly overhead.

"The color of the sky, then, is a fairly trustworthy sign in and of itself, and so is the color of the clouds. Intensely white clouds against an intensely blue sky mean bright weather ahead. Grayish clouds on a lightish blue foretell rain."

Constitutional Government.

By "constitutional government" is meant the government that has checks imposed upon it by a written (or unwritten) constitution or charter. The United States and England and France and various other countries are "constitutional" in this sense, whereas Russia and one or two other countries are nonconstitutional because of the absence of the above mentioned checks. The will of the czar, etc., being practically supreme.—New York American.

THE FIRST TELEGRAM.

It Was Not the Famous Message Sent by Morse's Daughter.

Hidden away in the archives of the Tennessee Historical society at Nashville is the account of the first actual message ever sent over a telegraph line. That dispatch differs materially from the solemn message that passed over the wire between Washington and Baltimore in the year 1844. It illustrates well, however, the lack of seriousness with which Mr. Morse's invention was taken when he first offered it to the world.

According to the account preserved at Nashville, Hon. Robert L. Caruthers of Lebanon, Tenn., was a member of Congress in 1843, and a member of the committee to which was referred Mr. Morse's application for an appropriation to build a telegraph line from Washington to Baltimore. Most of the members of the committee looked upon Morse as a visionary, and his proposal as impracticable.

On the last day of the session Morse went to the committee room and told them that he had stretched a wire to the top of the capitol building and had a young man up there. If they would write a message he would send it up, and the young man would bring them a copy of it. None of them believed it could be done. Judge Caruthers, however, pulled the envelope of a letter out of his pocket and wrote a message. Mr. Morse, who had his instrument with him, sat down and sent the message. In a few minutes the young man walked into the room with an exact copy of the message. The committee reported favorably, and recommended the appropriation.

The bill passed just before the adjournment. Some one went to Mr. Morse's boarding house to inform him that the appropriation was made. The daughter of the landlady went to Mr. Morse's room, waked him and gave him the welcome news. He said to her, "My daughter, you shall send the first message that goes from Washington to Baltimore." That promise was fulfilled when she sent the famous message: "What hath God wrought!"

Judge Caruthers was an ardent Whig, and in 1843 the Whigs were very angry with President Tyler, whom they accused of betraying the party. The message that Judge Caruthers sent from the committee room to the young man at the top of the Capitol was, "Tyler deserves to be hanged."—Youth's Companion.

To be sure, it's out of style. Still, would you like to have it?" "The girl blushed red with mortification. "What!" she said. "Do you think I'd wear your cast off clothes?" "I thought you might," hissed the young married woman. "You seem anxious enough to get my husband!"—Exchange.

MONEY TO RUN DOWN LYNCHERS

Macon, Ga., Aug. 20.—That Governor Harris means business in his hunt for the lynchers of Leo M. Frank, people in his home city are satisfied. The information was received here from the governor that he has offered half of the entire reward fund of the state for 1915 for the three first convictions of parties guilty of the abduction and lynching of Frank. The fund provided for the purpose of covering executive offers of rewards is limited to $3,000 a year, the maximum in any one case being $500.

The proclamation is so drawn that it leaves room for doubt as to whether the actual slaying of Frank occurred at Marietta, in Cobb county, or at Milledgeville, in Baldwin county. This covers the possibility that Frank was killed by lynchers before the party reached Cobb county, a belief shared in by quite a few. The point is raised that it is entirely probable that the body was displayed at the place where it was found for the purpose and with the intention of forcing trial of the case or cases in the event of apprehension of any of the lynchers in the county where feeling against Frank is bitter and where the family of Mary Phagan, the murdered girl, lived.

Governor Harris issued a statement in which he shows that every possible effort was made to protect the prisoner. "There is no man in the bounds of the state that regrets more deeply than I do this unfortunate occurrence," he says. "I shall do all in my power to discover and bring the perpetrators to justice. Mob law should never take the place of statute law. There will be no safety to life, liberty or property until this is recognized by our people."

Within a few days Georgia will be overrun with detectives. The Marietta police and sheriffs of a dozen counties are also busy on the case and believe that within a short time they will have progress to report. It is probable that the real start of the probe into the lynching will come next Tuesday with the coroner's inquest at Marietta.

Frank's Last Letter.

New York, Aug. 20.—A letter written by Leo M. Frank the day that he was dragged from the Milledgeville jail by lynchers and posted about an hour after he had been taken away on the long automobile ride that preceded his hanging, was made public after Frank's body had arrived in Brooklyn. In it Frank tells of his strength coming back to him, of the ability to move his neck slightly, and the hope that he will be all right in a few days. It was written to G. P. Connolly, the author of "The Truth About the Frank Case."

RUSSIANS MUST AGAIN ABANDON THEIR DEFENSES

London, Aug. 20.—The Teutonic advance on the eastern front is seriously endangering a portion of the Russian army and must soon have an effect on other fronts.

Berlin repeats the claim that the fortress of Kovno has fallen, compelling the Russians in the Kalwarya and Suwalki districts on the East Prussian frontier to fall back. In fact, the Russians now appear able to hold their own only in the Baltic provinces, where they are preventing the Germans from advancing.

Besides the capture of Kovno the Germans have taken additional Novogeorgievsk forts and, according to their account, have penetrated the outer positions of Brest-Litovsk, the great fortress which is the mainstay of what was expected to be the Russians' new line of defense.

There is no evidence yet of Grand Duke Nicholas' intentions, but military writers are of the opinion that the swiftness of the German advance has rendered it impossible for him to make a stand on the Brest-Litovsk line, which already virtually has been turned by Field Marshal Von Mackensen in the south and by his colleagues in the north.

The French have scored two successes in the west, taking a portion of a German trench in Artois after a heavy bombardment and making a further advance on the Linge summit in the Vosges. On both these sectors there has been heavy and continuous fighting, in which the French claim to have greatly improved their positions.

There have been some long distance artillery engagements between Serbians and the Austrians across the Danube, but thus far there is no evidence of the commencement of the Austro-German offensive which was to carry relief to the Turks.

A strong squadron of fast cruisers is being held in readiness to steam from Taranto, Italy, at a moment's notice. It is expected that the warships will be sent against Turkey if that country declines to satisfy Italy's demands for the release of Italian subjects held in the Ottoman empire.

GONZALES HAS THE SOLUTION OF MEX. AFFAIR

Mexico City, Aug. 20.—General Pablo Gonzales, military governor of the federal district, in an interview gave it as his firm belief that if the United States would recognize the Carranza government Mexico would be pacified within two months.

"The policy of the Constitutionalists," Gonzales said, "is to grant absolute pardons to all Mexicans who come in and surrender unconditionally. But of one thing you may be assured, and that is that there will be no compromise on our part with the enemies of the government. We have determined in the new era of peace which is dawning to see all foreigners and all legitimate property interests are given the fullest protection. Full protection will also be given to the members of the religious orders."

The general asserted that many of those opposed to the Carranzistas had already embraced the offer of amnesty and laid down their arms.

One great medical authority declares that sluggish bowels are the cause of more than half the ills that afflict mankind. Foley's Cathartic Tablets are an ideal physic for their action is wholesome and thoroughly cleansing, without griping, nausea or inconvenience. They invigorate and strengthen the bowels and have a good effect on the stomach and liver.

OUR OLD LIBERTY BELL.
Text From Which the Inscription It Bears Was Taken.
For fifty years after that July day in 1776, when the old bell rang out its memorable message, it continued to be rung on every festival and anniversary. It was rung on Feb. 22, 1832, in honor of the centennial of the birth of Washington. While being tolled on the morning of July 8, 1835, in memory of Chief Justice Marshall, who had died two days before, the old relic suddenly cracked. On Washington's birthday, 1843, an attempt was made to ring it, but the bell has since been mute.

Finally it was removed from its position in the tower to a lower story, and later it was placed on its original timbers in the vestibule of the state house in a prominent position immediately beneath where a larger bell, presented to Philadelphia in 1806, now proclaims the passing hours.

To Isaac Norris, the speaker of the colonial assembly, is ascribed the honor of having originally suggested the prophetic words from Leviticus xxv, 10, "Proclaim liberty throughout all the land unto all the inhabitants thereof," which were cast on the bell. The reason for the selection of this text at a time when there was not the slightest thought of a break with the mother country has been a subject of much conjecture, but the true reason is apparent when the full text is read, "And ye shall hallow the fiftieth year and proclaim liberty throughout the land and to all the inhabitants thereof." In selecting the text the Quakers had in mind the arrival of William Penn and their forefathers in America.—Christian Herald.

THE BARD OF AVON
Now It Is Alleged That Shakespeare Was Illiterate.
COULD NOT WRITE, IT IS SAID.

An Expert In Such Things Claims That an Analysis of the Signatures Left by the Immortal William Strips Him of All Literary Credit.

The question of who did "write Shakespeare" does not concern William McConway, who has written a monograph on his Shakespeare theories, so much as "could William Shakespeare of Stratford-on-Avon write at all?" Mr. Conway is convinced that, whoever did write the plays, it was not the bard of Avon, so called. He bases his belief on evidence presented by certain existing signatures made by William Shakespeare and which seem to prove him to have been an illiterate man.

Mr. McConway admits that, though so evidently illiterate, Shakespeare possessed native ability, manifested by his money getting faculties, and adds the fact that as a theatrical manager Shakespeare secured to himself the plays that he did and thus stamped himself a competent man of business and a judge of public taste. But in regard to certain deficiencies exhibited by his signature Mr. McConway, after having made a study of the characteristics of signatures, says:

"Observations of the efforts and performances of illiterate men in the laborious production of signatures has led me to the conclusion that here was a man ashamed of his inability to write, made so by his associations and the rise in his condition of life, seeking to cover his intellectual nakedness with a garment provided by a sympathizing friend.

Mr. McConway refers to the original documents unearthed by Professor Wallace in 1910, and his theory is that the solicitor who drew up the papers of the mortgage and of the will is the man who made for Shakespeare a copy of his name, which the illiterate Shakespeare then followed in scrawling, uncertain imitation to make the signatures to the documents. This saved him from the humiliation of having to make "his X mark."

A second document put in evidence by Mr. McConway is a fragment relating to litigation in respect to certain money interests in the Globe theater. In this fragment appears, in two places, the name "Wilm. Shakespeare," written by the professional scrivener who prepared the case. Mr. McConway points out that Shakespeare's own signature appended is a laborious imitation, performed by a man who could not read his chirography when he had written it.

Mr. McConway is convinced that this scrivener is the man who made the copy which enabled "Wilm. Shakespeare" to execute legal papers without the humiliation of the "X mark." The rule of legal procedure required the evidence to be written out and signed by the witness before leaving the presence of the court.

"Special attention is called to this signature," says Mr. McConway, "as it is much abbreviated. The 'great dramatist,' who had at his command, as evidenced by his putative works a

"We are told that he was instructed to appear later before the court for a further examination, but the record nowhere shows that he ever appeared, although the other witnesses appeared a second time. Would they be considered cynical who might surmise that the position in which Shakespeare of Stratford found himself when called upon to attach his signature to the record in open court was one of extreme embarrassment in that he could not without some exposure of ignorance use his 'copy' to guide his pen?"—New York Sun.

THE BARD OF AVON
Now It Is Alleged That Shakespeare Was Illiterate.

COULD NOT WRITE, IT IS SAID.

An Expert in Such Things Claims That an Analysis of the Signatures Left by the Immortal William Strips Him of All Literary Credit.

The question of who did "write Shakespeare" does not concern William McConway, who has written a monograph on his Shakespeare theories, so much as "could William Shakespeare of Stratford-on-Avon write at all?" Mr. Conway is convinced that, whoever did write the plays, it was not the bard of Avon, so called. He bases his belief on evidence presented by certain existing signatures made by William Shakespeare and which seem to prove him to have been an illiterate man.

Mr. McConway admits that, though so evidently illiterate, Shakespeare possessed native ability, manifested by his money getting facilities, and adds the fact that as a theatrical manager Shakespeare secured to himself the plays that he did and thus stamped himself a competent man of business and a judge of public taste. But in regard to certain deficiencies exhibited by his signature Mr. McConway, after having made a study of the characteristics of signatures, says:

"Observations of the efforts and performances of illiterate men in the laborious production of signatures has led me to the conclusion that there was a man ashamed of his inability to write, made so by his associations and the rise in his condition of life, seeking to cover his intellectual nakedness with a garment provided by a sympathizing friend.

Mr. McConway refers to the original documents unearthed by Professor Wallace in 1910, and his theory is that the solicitor who drew up the papers of the mortgage and of the will is the man who made for Shakespeare a copy of his name, which the illiterate Shakespeare then followed in scribbling, uncertain imitation to make the signatures to the documents. This saved him from the humiliation of having to make "his X mark."

A second document put in evidence by Mr. McConway is a fragment relating to litigation in respect to certain money interests in the Globe theater. In this fragment appears, in two places, the name "Wilm. Shakespeare," written by the professional scrivener who prepared the case. Mr. McConway points out that Shakespeare's own signature appended is a laborious imitation, performed by a man who could not read his chirography when he had written it.

Mr. McConway is convinced that this scrivener is the man who made the copy which enabled "Wilm. Shakespeare" to execute legal papers with out the humiliation of the "X mark." The rule of legal procedure required the evidence to be written out and signed by the witness before leaving the presence of the court.

"Special attention is called to this signature," says Mr. McConway, "as it is much abbreviated. The great dramatist, who had at his command as evidenced by his putative works a

CARNIVAL WILL FEATURE OPENING OF WHITE WAY

Such Is Plan for Event Expected to Mark New Epoch in the Municipal Life of This City When New Lights Are Turned On—Youngstown Celebrates Opening—Expert Engineer Is Here Today.

When the new "White Way" and new lighting system is turned on in this city, a carnival will be held if present arrangements are carried out, and the city will celebrate the event as one marking a new epoch in the city's history.
Youngstown has just turned on her new white way lights and 40,000 to 50,000 people—the largest crowd ever thronging the city, celebrated the event. Not only did Youngstown celebrate but some 40 other towns and cities within a 100-mile radius, also celebrated, and delegations of Boards of Trade of numerous cities attended the opening.

The Youngstown lights are from plans made by Mr. Jones, the expert who is now in the employ of this city and is working on the new lighting system.

Mr. Jones arrived in this city Friday morning for a further conference with Mr. Clapp, of the lighting company, and brought with him copies of Youngstown newspapers describing the gala event in connection

HENNESSY PARTY ONCE SAILED ON ARABIC

Two years ago when the P. J. Hennessy party returned from Europe they were aboard the White Star liner Arabic, which was torpedoed without warning and sunk off Queenstown, Thursday.

The party, two years ago, boarded the boat at Queenstown, going from that city by a small boat to the Arabic which stood off the harbor about ten miles. At that time the Hennessy party was much concerned when the vessel stopped off the Irish coast and no reason was assigned, but later it was learned the dense fog and fear of colliding with another boat caused the delay.

AUTO RUNS INTO VEHICLE

An automobile ran into the horse and buggy of Dr. A. A. Hyer, just as the Doctor was unhitching in front of Craig Bros.' store Friday morning. The horse was slightly injured and the harness broken to pieces.
There was no serious injuries.

The automobile's clutch refusing to work caused the accident.

SALARY INCREASED AT RECENT MEETING

At a recent meeting of the members of the Board of Education of District Number Three, which is composed of five townships, the sal-with the turning on of the new

"White Way."

Regarding the opening of the new white way in Youngstown, the Vindicator of Thursday, August 19th, says, in part:

At 9:08 o'clock p. m., Wednesday,
August 18, 1915, Youngstown emerged from what, in the comparison, might well be described as the semi-darkness of an ancient, wornout inadequate and ineffective lighting system, into the flood of light of a system modern in its installation, perfect in its operation, and of attractive beauty in its showing of illumination.

"In the transformation Youngstown stepped into the place in which it belongs in the ranks of those cities which in the demand of modern progress lay aside the old to adopt the new.

"In the turning on of the lights
the city was awakened by the re-vulsive sounded to announce the breaking of the dawn of new accomplishment and to arouse to the realization of beginning of a new epoch in the annals of municipal improvement.

"Never before in the history of Youngstown has such a large crowd gathered on public occasion of any kind, as was present in Central Square and overflowing into the converging streets as the one which was witness to the ceremonies attending, and the parade celebrating the turning on of the lights of the White Way lighting system."

ary of District Superintendent Frank
M. Allen was increased from $1,000 to $1,500 per annum.

The district in question is the largest in the county, and 47 teachers are under the supervision of Mr.
Allen.

SEVEN COATS STOLEN FROM AUTOMOBILE

Seven coats were stolen from the machine of Mr. Roscoe West, of Hillsboro, at the fair grounds Thursday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. West motored over to be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Elton Marine, south of town, and were accompanied to the fair by Mrs. Marine and Mrs. D. E. Marine.

The party left their wraps in the auto while they were in the grand stand and upon their return found the car emptied of its contents.

EXPECT TO OPEN STREET NEXT SAT.

If the weather permits, the Andrews Asphalt Company, which has the contract for paving East Court street, expect to have the street completed and ready for traffic Saturday of next week.

The work of laying the concrete base is moving forward very nicely, and just as soon as the asphalt is laid, it can be traveled over.

WILL OPEN AVENUE

Tomorrow evening Washington Avenue will be thrown open as far as Ogle street.

OBITUARY.

John N. McCoy was born on the 21st day of January, 1849, at the homestead of his father, near Washington C. H., in this county. He was one of the ten children of Abraham and Margaret McCoy, there being five boys and five girls, Elias Mc-Coy, F. M. McCoy, James M. McCoy,
M. L. McCoy, Nannie Melvin, Mary Burnett and Allie James, brothers and sisters survive the deceased. Sarah J. Briggs and Clara Cleveland preceded him in death.

His father and mother were among the early pioneers of the county, being descendants of James McCoy and Elizabeth McCoy, on the paternal, and John Hoppes and Nancy Hoppes on the maternal side.
These ancestors early came to the county when it was only a dense wilderness, thickly wooded, covered with mammoth trees, interspersed with low marshy and swampy lands, inhabited with wild animals and savage Indians. They endured all the hardships of frontier life, but carved out a name for the family, while subduing the wilds of the then west, that has been noted in the county for several generations. The McCoy and Hoppes families, before and since the organization of the county, have been among the leading citizens of the community, noted for their industrious habits, sterling qualities, and have been eminently useful in building up the land of their choice.

John N. McCoy united in marriage to Mary Popejoy on the 21st day of October, 1875, one of the daughters of Jackson and Martha Popejoy, also early residents of the county, and one of its leading families. Of this union there was born three children.
Ethel, who married Harry McGee, now living in Washington C. H., Le-Roy, who married Bess Owens, and lives near Mt. Sterling, Madison county, Ohio, and Floyd, who departed this life in 1908, three grandchildren, Frederic McCoy, Mildred McGee and Alice McGee.

John N. McCoy united with the Methodist Episcopal church about the year 1885.

He was a kind and loving husband, an affectionate father, always devoted to his wife and children. Their wants and desires solicited his every attention and he used his best energies to promote their comfort and happiness. His was truly a home life. He was a kind and generous friend, a good neighbor, and highly esteemed by all who knew him and of his sterling qualities.

He died on the 14th day of August, 1915, at the early age of sixty-six years, six months and twenty-four days. "One by one the shadows fall."

Sometime,
When the winds are soft and skies
are fair,
And fresh-lipped flowers are everywhere,
And bird-songs in the balmy air,
perchance I'll see,
On the troubled waters a gleaming sail
And I shall know that a boatman pale
Has come for me.

Sometime,
It may be at noon on a summer's day,
Mid the heat of toil, I shall pass away,
And sweetly sleep through the long,
long day.

Forgetting care,
And the sheaf will drop from the reaper's hand
And lie unbound where the stubbles stand.

And there will be grief in the family band
I shall not share.

Sometime,
It may be when the sheaves are gathered in
And the corn is drawn to the waiting bin,
And the goodly fruit is stored within
And the bright leaves fall,
I shall look my last on the sunset's
gold,
And joyfully pass to the heavenly fold

At the Master's call.
Sometime,
It may be at morn of a winter's night,
I shall pass from darkness into light,
And wearing a garment pure and white,

Seek the bright shore;

Newspaper Advertising

Goes direct to the people and the people constitute the buying public.
Newspaper advertising not only talks but it emphasizes; it has the undivided attention of the reader and covers a field no salesman can hope to reach. There are many styles in newspaper advertising and the small announcement, which costs only five cents, is just as effective in its way as the larger one, which costs proportionately more.
The benefits to be derived can not be measured by the size of the ad, for the very good reason that the small, inexpensive announcement invariably proves effective. Newspaper advertising costs from five cents up to any price the advertiser desires to pay.

"In the turning on of the lights the city was awakened by the revivelle sounded to announce the breaking of the dawn of new accomplishment and to arouse to the realization of beginning of a new epoch in the annals of municipal improvement.

"Never before in the history of Youngstown has such a large crowd gathered on public occasion of any kind, as was present in Central Square and overflowing into the converging streets as the one which was witness to the ceremonies attending, and the parade celebrating the turning on of the lights of the White Way lighting system."

OBITUARY.

John N. McCoy was born on the 21st day of January, 1849, at the homestead of his father, near Washington C. H., in this county. He was one of the ten children of Abraham and Margaret McCoy, there being five boys and five girls, Elias McCoy, F. M. McCoy, James M. McCoy, M. L. McCoy, Nannie Melvin, Mary Burnett and Allie James, brothers and sisters survive the deceased. Sarah J. Briggs and Clara Cleveland preceded him in death.

His father and mother were among the early pioneers of the county, being descendants of James McCoy and Elizabeth McCoy, on the paternal, and John Hoppes and Nancy Hoppes on the maternal side. These ancestors early came to the county when it was only a dense wilderness, thickly wooded, covered with mammoth trees, interspersed with low marshy and swampy lands, inhabited with wild animals and savage Indians. They endured all the hardships of frontier life, but carved out a name for the family, while subduing the wilds of the then west, that has been noted in the county for several generations. The McCoy and Hoppes families, before and since the organization of the county, have been among the leading citizens of the community, noted for their industrious habits, sterling qualities, and have been eminently useful in building up the land of their choice.

John N. McCoy united in marriage to Mary Popejoy on the 21st day of October, 1875, one of the daughters of Jackson and Martha Popejoy, also early residents of the county, and one of its leading families. Of this union there was born three children, Ethel, who married Harry McGee, now living in Washington C. H., Leroy, who married Bess Owens, and lives near Mt. Sterling, Madison county, Ohio, and Floyd, who departed this life in 1908, three grandchildren, Frederic McCoy, Mildred McGee and Alice McGee.

John N. McCoy united with the Methodist Episcopal church about the year 1885.

He was a kind and loving husband, an affectionate father, always devoted to his wife and children. Their wants and desires solicited his every attention and he used his best energies to promote their comfort and happiness. His was truly a home life. He was a kind and generous friend, a good neighbor, and highly esteemed by all who knew him and of his sterling qualities.

He died on the 14th day of August, 1915, at the early age of sixty-six years, six months and twenty-four days. "One by one the shadows fall."

Sometime,
When the winds are soft and skies are fair,
And fresh-lipped flowers are everywhere,
And bird-songs in the balmy air, perchance I'll see,
On the troubled waters a gleaming sail
And I shall know that a boatman pale
Has come for me.

Sometime,
It may be at noon on a summer's day,
Mid the heat of toil, I shall pass away,
And sweetly sleep through the long, long day.

Forgetting care,
And the sheaf will drop from the reaper's hand
And lie unbound where the stubbles stand.

And there will be grief in the family band
I shall not share.

Sometime,
It may be when the sheaves are gathered in
And the corn is drawn to the waiting bin,
And the goodly fruit is stored within
And the bright leaves fall,
I shall look my last on the sunset's gold.

And joyfully pass to the heavenly fold
At the Master's call.

Sometime,
It may be at morn of a winter's night,
I shall pass from darkness into light,
And wearing a garment pure and white,
Seek the bright shore;

Newspaper Advertising

Goes direct to the people and the people constitute the buying public. Newspaper advertising not only talks but it emphasizes; it has the undivided attention of the reader and covers a field no salesman can hope to reach. There are many styles in newspaper advertising and the small announcement, which costs only five cents, is just as effective in its way as the larger one, which costs proportionately more. The benefits to be derived can not be measured by the size of the ad, for the very good reason that the small, inexpensive announcement invariably proves effective. Newspaper advertising costs from five cents up to any price the advertiser desires to pay.
